Dr. Shevon Joseph is an attending physician in the department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the NYU Lutheran Medical Center in Brooklyn, NY. A bustling 450-bed teaching hospital, LMC offers a full range of services. Dr. Joseph's multifaceted role as an Attending physician entails providing affordable comprehensive outpatient women's health care at one of the NYU Lutheran Family Health Centers. She also provides inpatient care at the hospital and is responsible for training and preparing postgraduates in the OB/GYN residency program as well as medical student education.

Her career path began after migrating from South Trinidad (where she completed high school and sixth form studies), to Washington, DC to attend Howard University. She then attended Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia, PA and finally trained in OB/GYN at the prestigious Long Island Jewish Medical Center in NY.

Dr. Joseph has been dedicated to women's health care for all of her career providing prenatal and postpartum care, genetic counseling, general gynecological exams, treatment of conditions such as menstrual problems, cervical dysplasia, cancer screenings, family planning and geriatric care to women of various cultural backgrounds in the Brooklyn community.

"Perceptions, myths and mysteries that impact breast cancer screening, diagnosis and management within immigrant communities in NYC"